

October 24, 2025: On Obsession for My Hatred

Every single day, from the moment that I wake up, there is an effort by a series of recurring sounds that attempt to engage with me in a series of events that regularly take place in my life.

I make coffee, I use the bathroom, I take out the pets, etc.

Each and every day, the same series of sounds accompanies these movements to engage with my life and grab my attention.

Then, as I begin to do any work whatsoever, these sounds are injected more frequently into my work life to ensure that I am aware that my every movement is being 'watched' and 'responded to' by a machine monster.

I am deeply saddened to report this to the public. I am living through a real world depiction of the movie 'Groundhog's Day'.

The United States Military has turned against us as the people that it is supposedly protecting.

The notion that the USA military is protecting us as its people is a complete farce now.

Just read the news, look at the events that are taking place, and read my daily testimony.

Our United States military that stands before us seeking medals of honor, thanks and praise for their 'service' and an ongoing firehose worth of cash influx,
Pours 'imaginary concrete' over my life every single day to protect Donald Trump from accountability for his ongoing abuse of our home and country.

This began as military veterans in our family and in our neighborhood expressing themselves to me in such a way as to imply that they were receiving 'insider' information about my life.

This continued to develop into other, more remote, veterans and federal employees that showed an ongoing 'coordination' in their movements, actions, and speech and has continued outward to be a group of criminals that follow my wife and I everywhere that we go.

I will continue my work as my computer and patience allows.

The essential product that I am working on right now will look like this:

- 1) Nazi Band of Chuck E Cheese animatronics,
- 2) Plays a soundtrack for Donald Trump's robot dance,
- 3) Donald's team forms a machine that believes it is Terminator,
- 4) Donald's team is destroying our world like a giant animatronic toddler,
- 5) Daily news should be a daily dichotomy of De'Facts vs De'Flections
- 6) In 2028 (whoever survives that long in the ongoing warfare that is being waged against our personal lives), Barak Obama II is elected as the next president.

I made it this far before needing a break today:

(I have a life to live and Ronald MacDonald's Nazi Klown-show of Horrors and Whores is eating it away every single day of the week, month, year, and decade now)

(We, the itty-bitty, unimportant, and completely replaceable losers of the world that won't dance to the sounds of an evil Nazi band)

